Panda.co remains our flagship venture, and while we may not have reached the specific priorities highlighted in our previous quarterly report, we've achieved significant milestones in other areas. Notably, we've elevated both player engagement and wager volumes to unprecedented levels. Our fruitful collaborations with the $BITCOIN token and DogeBets teams have generated substantial profits, contributing to our robust financial performance. In the month of June alone, we saw an impressive wager volume exceeding $5,000,000 USD.

There are vast avenues for enhancement within the platform, and we're excited about the potential improvements on the horizon. As we move into the upcoming quarter, we have a clear list of priorities. Among these, fostering new partnerships will be a key focus. Additionally, we're nearing completion of critical UI/UX improvements which will significantly enhance the user experience.

However, our primary objective is to increase our player base. With our ongoing improvements and strategic collaborations, we aim to attract and onboard a substantial number of new players, driving both engagement and growth in the process.
